PEONIES

Peonies are the most easily grown of all the hardy flowering plants. Each year they produce a wealth of gorgeous blooms over a period of several weeks. With a little care the plants live and produce for many years, therefore it pays to plant only the finest varieties. Our list contains many of the very highest rated varieties.

Size of plants—All plants sold are strong divisions, 3 to 5 eyes or more, with a good root system. Strong plants that usually bloom the first year and with proper care quickly develop into larger clumps.

Planting and Care—Fall planting is best for Peonies. Set them anytime before the ground freezes.

Set the roots so the buds or eyes are upright. Plant the roots so the buds are just about 2 inches below the surface. Do not plant too deep or the plants may fail to bloom.

The first winter, hill the ground slightly over the plants and cover with a little straw or coarse mulch but avoid leaves or anything that may become too wet. Remove mulch and level ground after ground thaws in spring.

Feed peonies with a little commercial fertilizer several times each summer. Spread it around the plants, not on them and hoe it into the ground.

NOTE: We fill and ship Peony orders in fall only.

GARDNER'S OWN-ROOT FRENCH LILACS

The Lilacs offered in the following list are among the best of the French or Hybrid Lilacs. Most of them are listed in the best 100 in "Lilacs for America". This list includes all the colors to be found in Lilacs today, from snowy white through shades of lavender and blue, pink and rose, red, purple and violet, some with single blossoms, others with florets as double as a rose. Seeing them in bloom it is hard to believe that they all have been developed from the old-fashioned lilac of grandmothers day.

During the past 25 years we have tested a great many lilac varieties and we discarded all that we considered inferior. Every lilac we list has done very well with us over a period of years, and every one of them is a really fine lilac.

Own-Root Lilacs—French Lilacs on their own roots are as hardy and long living as the comon lilac. They start quickly after transplanting and bloom early. Most sorts bloom well while still very small. Lilacs budded or grafted on privet are seldom satisfactory, usually they do not live long. All plants offered by us are growing on their own roots, good husky plants that will do well.

Fall is the best time to plant lilacs, though spring planting is satisfactory if done before growth starts.

Lilacs will do well in a sunny location in any good, well-drained sweet soil. Give them lime if the soil is acid. Fertilize with manure or commercial fertilizer. Watering them during dry spells is very beneficial, but remember, lilacs will not grow in low, wet places.

The letter immediately following each lilac name indicates whether the florets are double or single. S. indicates single florets; D. double. The color following the letter indicates the general color effect of the blooms.

Notice to our customers

Our nursery now located at West De Pere is being moved to Horicon. We have purchased land on Highway 33 about two miles east of the city of Horicon and have already planted several acres to Peonies and Lilacs. We expect to move most of our West De Pere stock to the Horicon location this year, but our show beds and a small planting of nursery stock will be continued at West De Pere for the present.
